Latest Update: 29 April 1996

This Web-Base is a finding aid to the compiled voter registration data in Jim W. Faulkinbury's "Foreign-Born Voters of California in 1872". His compilation also contains information regarding the naturalization of these voters; namely the date, place and court of record where the naturalization took place.

For details on how to obtain this additional information, please see How Do I Obtain More Information.

For details about this collection, please see Foreign-Born Voters of California in 1872 - Details.

Note: This is one of a number of files that comprises a total of 61,691 records extracted by Jim W. Faulkinbury, C.G.R.S. from the county level Great Registers of Voters for California in 1872. They were hand-coded into HTML by FEEFHS and initially posted as 29 files in late March 1996. The FBVCA Index provides current information about the status of this project.

owns the trotting park at Vallejo, and is also a large owner of business property in Vallejo. Fraternally, he is connected with the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks and the Knights of Columbus. In 1868, in Sacramento, Mr. Smith was married to Mary Cunningham, and of the ten children born of this marriage six are living, as follows: James A., Joseph G., Thomas F., Rose, Theresa (the wife of Boyd Burns, of Vallejo) and Clara, the latter the wife of John Clark of the same city. Thomas F. is in charge of the store, and the other two sons are employed in the Mare Island navy yard. In August, 1911, Mr. Smith was bereaved by the death of his wife, her loss not alone being felt by her immediate family, but by the whole community, all loving her for her kindly traits and amiable disposition.

ST. ALPHONSUS TURIBIUS' CHURCH.

The city of Suisun numbers among her ennobling influences the church of which Rev. William Cleary is the beloved pastor, St. Alphonsus Turibius, the duties of which he assumed in 1911. The history of the parish dates back to the early '60s, and is one of the pioneer parishes of the Archdiocese of San Francisco. From the records it is ascertained that Rev. L. Deyaert was the first pastor, his ministry extending from 1864 to 1866, during which time he erected the first church. His successor was Rev. L. A. Augey, who was the first resident pastor in Suisun, and it was he who built the present parish church, dedicated November 8, 1868, by the late Most Rev. Joseph Sadoc Alemany, O. P., Archbishop of San Francisco. Returning to his native home in France in 1872, Father Augey was succeeded in that year by the late Rev. Michael McNaboe, the memory of whose long and faithful work in behalf of the parish still remains fresh in the minds of old parishioners. Besides the present parish of Suisun, his territory also embraced Elmira, now in the parish of Dixon, and Rio Vista, now an independent parish, twenty-five miles away. In his duties as pastor Father McNaboe was assisted for a time by his brother, Rev. Thomas McNaboe, the present pastor of the Visitation Church, San Francisco. In 1885 Father McNaboe left Suisun to take charge of the parish of Alameda, and there he died in 1892. Father McNaboe's successor was Rev. Thomas Phillips, who was followed in 1889 by Rev. John Leahy, the latter being compelled to retire in 1896 on account of failing health.

No account of the history of St. Alphonsus' parish would be complete without mention of two pastors by the name of McKinnon, the first of whom, William D. McKinnon, the distinguished chaplain of the California regiment in the Philippine Islands, was the successor of Father Leahy. Filled with a burning love for souls and for the salvation of his fellow-man, he worked with a zeal that knew no bounds, and the good which he accomplished can never be computed. During his short pastorate he built the fine and commodious residence attached to the church. His death was a sad blow not alone to his parishioners, but throughout the state among those who had come under his influence. Father William D. McKinnon was succeeded by his brother, Rev. B. J. McKinnon, the present pastor of St. Augustine's Church, Oakland.

The next pastor of St. Alphonsus' Church was Rev. William P. Quill, who assumed charge of the parish in 1900, and owing to ill health was obliged to resign his duties two years later. He died at St. Agnes' Church, San Francisco, in 1904. His successor in Suisun was Rev. Patrick J. Quinn, whose pastorate is notable in that he succeeded in clearing a heavy debt under which the church had labored for many years. He also made many improvements in the church property and also in the Catholic cemetery at Fairfield. From Dixon Rev. Francis Garvey came to Suisun to assume the duties laid down by Father Quinn. Credit for the completion of St. Alphonsus' Church, as it

History of the Catholic Community in Suisun-Fairfield 1861-1986

"TO REMEMBER IS TO GIVE LIFE"

After months of prayerful consideration, decision making, collection of historical information and photographic memories, the Holy Spirit Centenary Book Committee is now in readiness to begin the work of publishing a commemorative edition honoring the centennial celebration of the Sacramento Diocese, 1886-1986, truly a milestone in the history of Holy Spirit Church.

The forthcoming history book will trace our spiritual heritage from the year 1861 when St. Alphonsus was established as a new Mission in the fast-growing Suisun community. It was here the first Mass was said by the Reverend Deyaert in a private residence. The first Catholic church was built in 1865. Beginning with the early days, the history will include former church buildings; early pioneer families associated with the history of the church; Priests and Sisters who have served; young people of the parish who entered religious life; the documentation of first marriages, baptisms, and confirmations. The formation of the many organizations and ethnic groups that involved the parishioners will be especially noted in the history.

In words and pictures, the book will totally reflect our involvement in the parochial education of our children and the promotion of brotherhood in the Suisun-Fairfield community.

Our sincere purpose in this endeavor is to preserve historical records for human understanding and enjoyment. Our hopes and dreams are for a book you will treasure and pass down to future generations . . . a book that will let us remember and learn anew where one belongs in today's world.

In this centennial year we take pride in a strong foundation that had its roots at a time in California history when man was striving to better himself and build his future with God. The generations that follow us will read what has been established and cherished . . . they, too, will be strengthened by the efforts of those before them.

The history book will be an attractive hard-cover, 11 × 8½ edition containing about 112 pages. Memorial and Tribute pages will be available for those wishing to honor or recognize parents, children, or special friends. Publication due date - March 1987.

Death of Judge Smith.

Judge J. L. Smith of Elmira passed away at his home at that place last Saturday after a long illness. He suffered a paralytic stroke about a year ago, and had never been well since. About two weeks before his death he had a second stroke, and from that time but little hope was held for his recovery.

The funeral was held from St. John's Catholic church, Elmira, last Tuesday and the interment was in Suisun cemetery.

Deceased leaves besides a wife, Mrs. Delia T. Smith, two sisters, Mrs. L. Martin of Tulare and Miss Mamie Smith of San Francisco and four brothers, M. L. Smith of San Francisco and H. E., M. P. and J. A. Smith of Oregon.

James Lewis Smith was born in Canada sixty-one years ago, and came to California with his parents in 1856. In 1870 he was married to Miss Delia T. Alloran, and shortly after they moved to Elmira, where Mr. Smith engaged in the butcher business. His neighbors soon decided that he would make an extremely efficient officer, and thereupon elected him constable, an office which he held for a number of years until elected justice of the peace. This latter office he held for sixteen years and had just been elected for another term. Such an endorsement as this from one's neighbors shows the regard in which he was held. In connection with his duties as a justice, Mr. Smith was agent for Balfour & Guthrie and also did a real estate business. He was a member of the Independent Order of Foresters.—[Vacaville Reporter.]

and made at the newly smelting works assay office give very promising results. The assayer at the smelting works stated that the ore resembles the famous Tonopah ore. Mr. Mangold owns some 16 acres upon which this ore has been found, and if everything turns out as it promises he will not have to work very hard from now on. Mr. Mangold intends selling the tailings to one of the local brick companies for material to be used in the construction of fine brick.—[Vallejo Times.]

French Language French belongs to the Italic (Romanic) group of the Indo-European family of languages. It developed from the vernacular Latin of the Roman Empire. The French language had a strong influence in W. Europe during the Middle Ages and in the 18th c. For three centuries (following the Norman Conquest) it was the official language of the English court and has had a profound effect on modern English. French borrowed heavily from Italian during the Renaissance and has also many Germanic borrowings. In the 18th c. it was the universal language of European culture. Historically, French is divided into three periods: Old French, before the 14th c., Middle French, 14th–16th cc., and Modern French, from the 16th c. to the present day. It is spoken in France by about 46,500,000, in Belgium by about 3,500,000, in Switzerland by about 1,100,000 speakers, in Canada by about 6,000,000, in Haiti by about 3,500,000, and in other French-speaking countries by about 41,000,000 speakers, in all about 100 million

French Revolution the series of violent political and social upheavals in France (1789–99), which overthrew the French monarchy and ended with the establishment of the Consulate. Its causes lay in the many defects of the ancien régime: political power was monopolized by a privileged nobility, the peasants were depressed by the continuance of the feudal system and inefficient agricultural methods, the state was bankrupt after a long series of wars, and there was rapid inflation. Calonne and Necker submit to the nobility and upper clergy. Led by Sieyès and Mirabeau, they took the Tennis Court Oath (June 20, 1789), declared themselves to be the National Assembly, and invited the other estates to join them. The king summoned troops to Versailles, and this, together with adverse economic conditions, provoked insurrection in Paris, where the Bastille was stormed (July 14, 1789). Riots followed in towns throughout France, and the National Guard was established under Lafayette. Rural rioting spread panic in the countryside and prompted the deputies at Versailles to vote the abolition of feudalism (Aug. 4, 1789) and to vote the Declaration of the Rights of Man (Aug. 26, 1789). A Paris mob marched to Versailles (Oct. 5, 1789) and ordered the royal family to move to Paris. The Assembly followed (Oct. 15, 1789), and from then on Paris dominated the course of the revolution. The next 18 months were spent in constitutional debate, in the course of which the old provinces of France were replaced by 83 departments, and the Civil Constitution of the Clergy was voted (July 12, 1790). Church land was nationalized and sold, the proceeds forming the security for the assignats. The constitution of 1791 established a limited monarchy and a restricted franchise. Republicanism grew after the royal family had attempted to escape from Paris (June 20, 1791) and were recaptured at Varennes in N.E. France. The Legislative Assembly, which began work Oct. 1, 1791, was suspicious of plots between French émigrés, Marie Antoinette and the Austrian court, and declared war on Austria (Apr. 20, 1792), thus beginning the French Revolutionary Wars. Early reverses in the war led the mob to storm the Tuileries (Aug. 10, 1792) and to commit the September massacres (Sept. 2–6, 1792) in prisons in Paris and the provinces. The Paris Commune, led by Marat, increased its power, and the Legislative Assembly was replaced by the Convention, which abolished the monarchy (Sept. 21, 1792). Political power passed to the Girondists and the king was executed (Jan. 21, 1793). This brought Britain, Holland and Spain into the war against France. Amid military defeats, the treason of Dumouriez and revolt in the Vendée, the extremists of the Mountain organized an armed insurrection (June 2, 1793) which purged the Convention of Girondists and established the emergency government of the Committee of Public Safety. Many Girondists were executed (Oct. 31, 1793). The new government, dominated by Robespierre, represented the dictatorship of the Mountain, and was reinforced by the mass executions of the Terror. With the execution (Mar.–Apr. 1794) of Hébert and Danton and their followers, Robespierre's rule became even more extremist. Maximum wages and prices were fixed. Christianity was replaced by the Cult of the Supreme Being as the official religion. The Convention overthrew Robespierre on 9 Thermidor (July 27, 1794) and a reaction set in. A new constitution was voted (Aug. 22, 1795), and the Vendémiaire insurrection in Paris (Oct. 5, 1795) was put down by Barras and Napoleon Bonaparte. The period of the Directory (1795–9) was marked by economic crises at home and the growth of Napoleon's reputation as a military leader abroad. The Directory was overthrown (Nov. 9, 1799) by the coup d'état of Brumaire, which transferred power to three consuls, Napoleon emerging as the dominant one. Within France, the Revolution had begun to give political power to the bourgeoisie and to distribute land to the peasantry. Its ideals of liberty, equality and fraternity remained as an inspiration to European liberals in the 19th c.

ALSACE-LORRAINE: HOME OF GERMAN EMIGRANTS

By Hugh T. Law, M.A., A.G.

Historical Background

Due to the victories of Mazarin, first minister of the ten-year old King Louis XIV, France acquired Alsace in 1648 by the Treaty of Westphalia. The Duchy of Lorraine was virtually in France during the reign of Duke Stanislaus Leszczynski, the deposed King of Poland and father-in-law of King Louis XV. When Stanislaus, who ruled at Nancy, France, died in 1776, Lorraine became officially part of France.

When Bismarck and his troops beat Emperor Napoleon III in 1871, the three departments (states) of Bas-Rhin, Haut-Rhin, and Moselle were taken over by Germany. The western part of Haut-Rhin put up a stiff fight against the accession by the Germans. This part of Haut-Rhin was born in 1871 and christened the Territory of Belfort. After World War I these three departments were returned to France.

Because of the foregoing events, if an ancestor came to the United States between 1830 and 1870 it is usually easy to determine whether or not he was born in one of the three above-mentioned departments. The U.S. censuses of 1850, 1860, and 1870 may list him as having been born in France. Then if the 1880, 1900, and 1910 censuses state he was born in Germany, he must have been born either in Bas-Rhin, Haut-Rhin, or Moselle, which were French before 1871, but German from then until 1918.

It is usually easier to trace ancestors to these three departments than elsewhere in France or to many areas of Germany, because of two record sources, one of which is the Alsace Emigration Index.

The Alsace Emigration Index

This index pertains to Bas-Rhin, Haut-Rhin, and the Territory of Belfort. It consists of the following microfilms:

Chlorid von Platin

This index covers the years from 1817 to 1966, but Haut-Rhin is not covered so thoroughly in the first years, and Bas-Rhin is not so complete from the 1840's to 1866. Many Germans travelled to Strasbourg or Colmar and took trains to Le Havre or Antwerp. The Le Havre passenger lists show only the German state or province, while the Alsace Emigration Index, with bilingual scribes of the original records, lists their towns of birth in Germany. If they went to Antwerp, the local hotel registers in the municipal archives, available from 1834 to 1850, August 1853 to September 1878, and from December 1881 to 1898, also mention their birthplaces.

If you find your ancestor's name and birthplace in the Alsace Emigration Index, you can trace his ancestry in the parish registers and perhaps in the civil records. One principle is important to remember: Since marriage records after about 1730 normally name the parents or at least the father of brides and grooms, you should first look for the marriage or death record of an ancestor, before his or her birth record. The marriage or death record may yield a birthplace in another town or parish, and they often give the birthdate or at least the age of persons.

If you find other persons bearing your ancestor's surname in the Alsace Emigration Index, but not his, you would do well to record the birthplaces of these people and to examine the records of these places for your ancestor's birth record. He may have been born in one of those places and emigrated from another French department or during years when the Index had few entries for his

Another record to examine for Bas-Rhin for the year when your ancestor was age twenty, consists of the Army Conscription Record, available on microfilm for some years. If these records are not at the Genealogical library for the year when he reached the age of twenty, you ought to employ a genealogist at or near Strasbourg to examine them for you for that year.

Other records, well represented in Moselle and Haut-Rhin, are hypotheques (mortgage records), which list residences of people with land or other property. They are not on microfilm, so you will need to employ a researcher to examine them.

If after checking the Alsace Emigration Index, conscription records, and perhaps the mortgage records of Haut-Rhin, you have not found your ancestor's birth record, he was probably born in Moselle.

Records in the Departmental Archives of Moselle at Metz

The following records are listed in the microfiche catalog at any of the LDS Branch Libraries:

- 1) 1817-1843 passports for foreign lands, incl. some Germans.
- 2) 1840-1844 and 1841-1864, passports for foreign lands.
- 3) 1817-1854 and 1860-1868, army conscription records, giving birthdates of twenty-year old men, birthplaces, and parentage.
- 4) 1877-1890 records in German of families emigrating from all over Germany. Names, dates, birthplaces, and destinations are given in 165 registers. This is a wonderful source!

Options of Alsatians and Lorrainers

This is the important record mentioned with the Alsace Emigration Index. Some persons in Alsace-Lorraine thought that after the Germans had begun their rule in 1871 that they were voting for French rule by submitting their name, birthplace, and birthdate. Others actually emigrated and gave this information. What swelled these registrations to half a million was the law that people born in Alsace-Lorraine, but living in France, also had to register.

These options are on microfilms 787,154 to 787,166 in many alphabetical lists. The last film contains names, birthdates, birthplaces, and destinations of many persons who emigrated to the USA in 1871 or 1872.

The procedure in examining this index for a rare surname is to write down where every person of a certain surname was born. If the surname is common, you can lessen your work by copying only names of persons born in the period of time from five years before your ancestor's birth to five years after it. Thus you will find reference to his or her first cousins born in the same town as your ancestor, and perhaps some brothers and sisters who stayed in Alsace-Lorraine or in France.

The next step is to seek the towns on your list in a French gazetteer to find out in which French department they were located. Copy the department, the arrondissement (ar), and the canton (c). You will then probably see that the surname sought is especially found in certain arrondissements and cantons. You will probably find your ancestor's birth record there.

Other French Records for Tracing Germans

Records microfilmed in Bas-Rhin are of much interest to many researchers seeking their German ancestors in that part of France. One record is the Etats nominatives des refugies allemands arrives dans le Bas-Rhin, 1848-1850 (List of Germans who arrived in Bas-Rhin after the Revolution of 1848, especially from Baden). A similar record is Refugies allemands, dossiers individuelles (Individual files of German refugees), in microfilms, 1,071,441 to 1,071,451. Consult the library catalog in Salt Lake City or in one of the LDS Branch Libraries under "France, Bas-Rhin, Emigration and Immigration", for the correct film to use for the surname you are seeking.

Both of the above records list the birthplaces of German emigrants. Many of these men continued on to the United States, and being intellectuals for the most part, began publishing many German newspapers in America.

Another source record which locates many Germans is the Etats signaletiques des etrangers expulses de la France (Identifying lists of foreigners deported from France). They are as follows:

Years	Microfilms
1859-1861	1,071,760
1862-1864	1,071,761
1865 (Jan-Oct)	1,071,762
Oct 1865-1870	1,071,452

This last film also contains an index for the years 1859-1869.

Tracing Ancestors who Emigrated Before 1800

The eleventh and last Alsace-Lorraine story (in Part 1 of my book, How to Trace Your Ancestors to Europe) tells of people who emigrated from a town in Bas-Rhin in about 1738. A Swiss story near the end of its group tells of ten families from Bern Canton, Switzerland, who emigrated as a group to Alsace and left from there for Pennsylvania in 1739. There probably was also emigration from Lorraine during the 1700's.

Identifying the Place of Origin of pre-1800 Emigrants from Alsace

1) 835 family histories, available in Alsace, are listed as an appendix to Christian Wolff's Guide des recherches genealogiques en Alsace (Guide to genealogical research in Alsace). He also lists towns and tells what genealogies pertain to them. Call #944.383 D2g.

2) Fonds du Conseil Souverain d'Alsace (Collections of the Sovereign Council of Alsace). On microfilm 962,196 item 2, this book names many persons of past centuries in Bas-Rhin and Haut-Rhin. It also serves as an index to naturalization records of many Germans and some Swiss. For example, see Fridolin Wetzel's name in the index. The first reference it gives is "456 (4)."

Turn to page 146, which has naturalites on it. You will see that the number 456 is listed there. In microfilm 1,069,949 near the front, see the heading 456 again. The fourth film also contains these naturalization records. Another excellent source for listing birthplaces of immigrants to Alsace are the parish registers. Marriages are the best records, but often birth and death records give this information.

3) The Bulletin du Cercle Genealogique d'Alsace (Bulletin of the Genealogical Circle of Alsace) lists many families and is often indexed. Call #944.383 D25b.

4) Francois-J. Himly's Table des noms roturiers des inventaires des archives anciennes (Index to names of commoners in the inventories of old records). It deals with Bas-Rhin and tells in which document a name is found, and about one-fourth of the persons named are given a place of residence. Call #944.383 A5is, Ser. B-M, Index volume 2.

5) Nouveau dictionnaire de biographie Alsacienne (New dictionary of Alsatian biography). It lists many persons born before 1800 and gives their birthplaces. Call #944.383 D35n.

6) Andre Ganter, Inventaire analytique des Contrats de mariage du Val St. Amarin. (Analytical inventory of marriage contracts of the Valley St.-Amarin in Haut Rhin, before notaries). This indexed record shows many persons with their places of residence. #944.3833 A3h.

7) Archives du Bas-Rhin, Index General des Inventaires des Fonds Anciens, Xe, a 1789. (General index to the inventories of ancient collections). This index names families, towns, and subjects and often lists early places of residence of families. Call #944.3835 A3br.

Records for both Alsace and Lorraine

1) Marie Joseph Bopp: Die evangelischen Gemeinden und Hohen Schulen in Elsass und Lothringen von der Reformation bis sur Gegenwart. (The protestant churches and academies in Alsace and Lorraine from the Reformation to the present.) It names ministers, teachers, and administrators and where they were located in certain years. It lists some birthplaces. If you find the record of a man with the surname of your ancestor, perhaps you can locate his death or marriage record. This book is also on film 415,770.

Records of the Moselle department

1) The genealogical periodical Genealogie Lorraine lists many families, and many issues have been filmed. Call #944.38 D25c.

2) Henri Tribout: Documents genealogiques du pays messin de la Lorraine de langue Allemand, noblesse, clerge, bourgeoisie, magistrature d'apres les registres paroisses et d'etat civil. (Genealogical documents of the Metz region and of the German-speaking section of Lorraine, of the nobility, clergy, burgers, court personnel, from parish and civil registers.) After 1792. Call #944.3825 V2t.

3) Joseph Rohr: Documents genealogiques de Sarreguemines (Folpersviller, Neunkirch, et de Wolferding) de 1663 a 1790. Genealogical records of Saargemuend, Folpersweiler, Neunkirchen, and Woelferdingen, from 1663 to 1790. Call

4) Jean Louis Calbat and Rene Maire: Alemont, Canton de Verny. (Alemont in the township of Verny). Marriages from several towns, 1681-1792. Call #944.3825, volume 29, nos. 1-20.

5) Camille Maire: L'Emigration des Lorrains en Amerique 1815-1870. (The emigration of Lorrainers to America 1815-1870.) It names emigrants with their town of birth or residence, suggesting where they lived in the 1700's. Call #944.381 W2m.

Records of the Remainder of Lorraine

The French departments of Meurthe-et-Moselle, and parts of the departments of Meuse and Vosges were historically in Lorraine, even though they were not occupied by the Germans from 1871 to 1918. If a record states that your ancestor came from Lorraine, and you do not find him in the records cited for Moselle, then you would do well to check records of these other three departments.

The Departmental Archives of Meuse, 20 rue Mgr.-Aimond, 5501 Bar-le-Duc, France, has requests for passports to foreign countries in 142 M1 from 1799 to 1807. In 143 M it has recordings of passports since 1799. It also conserves passports for the interior of France from 1809 to 1846 in 146 M3. Many people bought these passports and used them to emigrate with, or to obtain other passports, on the way to Le Havre.

The Departmental Archives of Vosges, Case officielle 586, 88021 Epinal, France, has emigration and naturalization records in 15 M 17 for 1871-1875, and passport records in 16 M 59, (the inventory does not mention any years.)

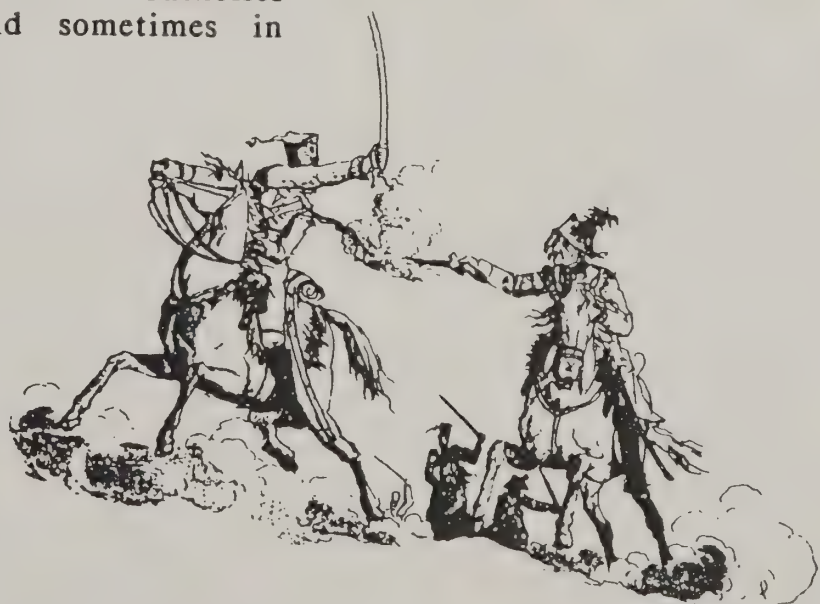

The only passport or emigration records filmed to date for Alsace-Lorraine are those of Bas-Rhin and Haut-Rhin. The departments of Meuse and Vosges are also represented by books at the Genealogical Library in Salt Lake City.

Civil records after 1792 or Alsace and the department of Moselle are in French, except for some towns prior to about 1830, whose records are in German. Parish records of Lutherans are usually in German, and those of Catholics in Latin and sometimes in French.

The Source of this Article on Alsace-Lorraine

This article is based on my article on Tracing Families to Alsace-Lorraine in part 2 of my book, How to Trace Your Ancestors to Europe. Part 1, which consists of 117 stories of how ancestors were traced to Europe, begins with eleven interesting stories of how ancestors were traced to Alsace and Lorraine. This book treats Alsace-Lorraine separately from France or Germany because of the large numbers of stories for these two countries, sixteen for France and nineteen for Germany. The photographs of German and French emigrants at the depot in Strasbourg and on a ship, came from the above-mentioned book.

Hugh Law has been employed by the Genealogical Society of Utah for thirty years, and he has spent much time evaluating records in European archives. He was in charge of the Romance Languages Speakers at the 1969 World Conference on Records, and lectured on how to trace ancestors to France. At the 1980 World Conference he gave a paper on Belgium and another one on Italy. He wrote the chapter on France for the 1980 edition of Genealogical Research: Methods and Sources, published by the American Society of Genealogists in Washington, D.C.

FRANCE

In France, there is a vast storehouse of genealogical information in some of the earliest records of Europe, dating back to the eleventh century. The key to successful family historical research in France, just as in every European country, is to know where (village or city) your ancestor was born. In this way the National Archives of France can help you determine the département, which will lead you to the proper regional archives.

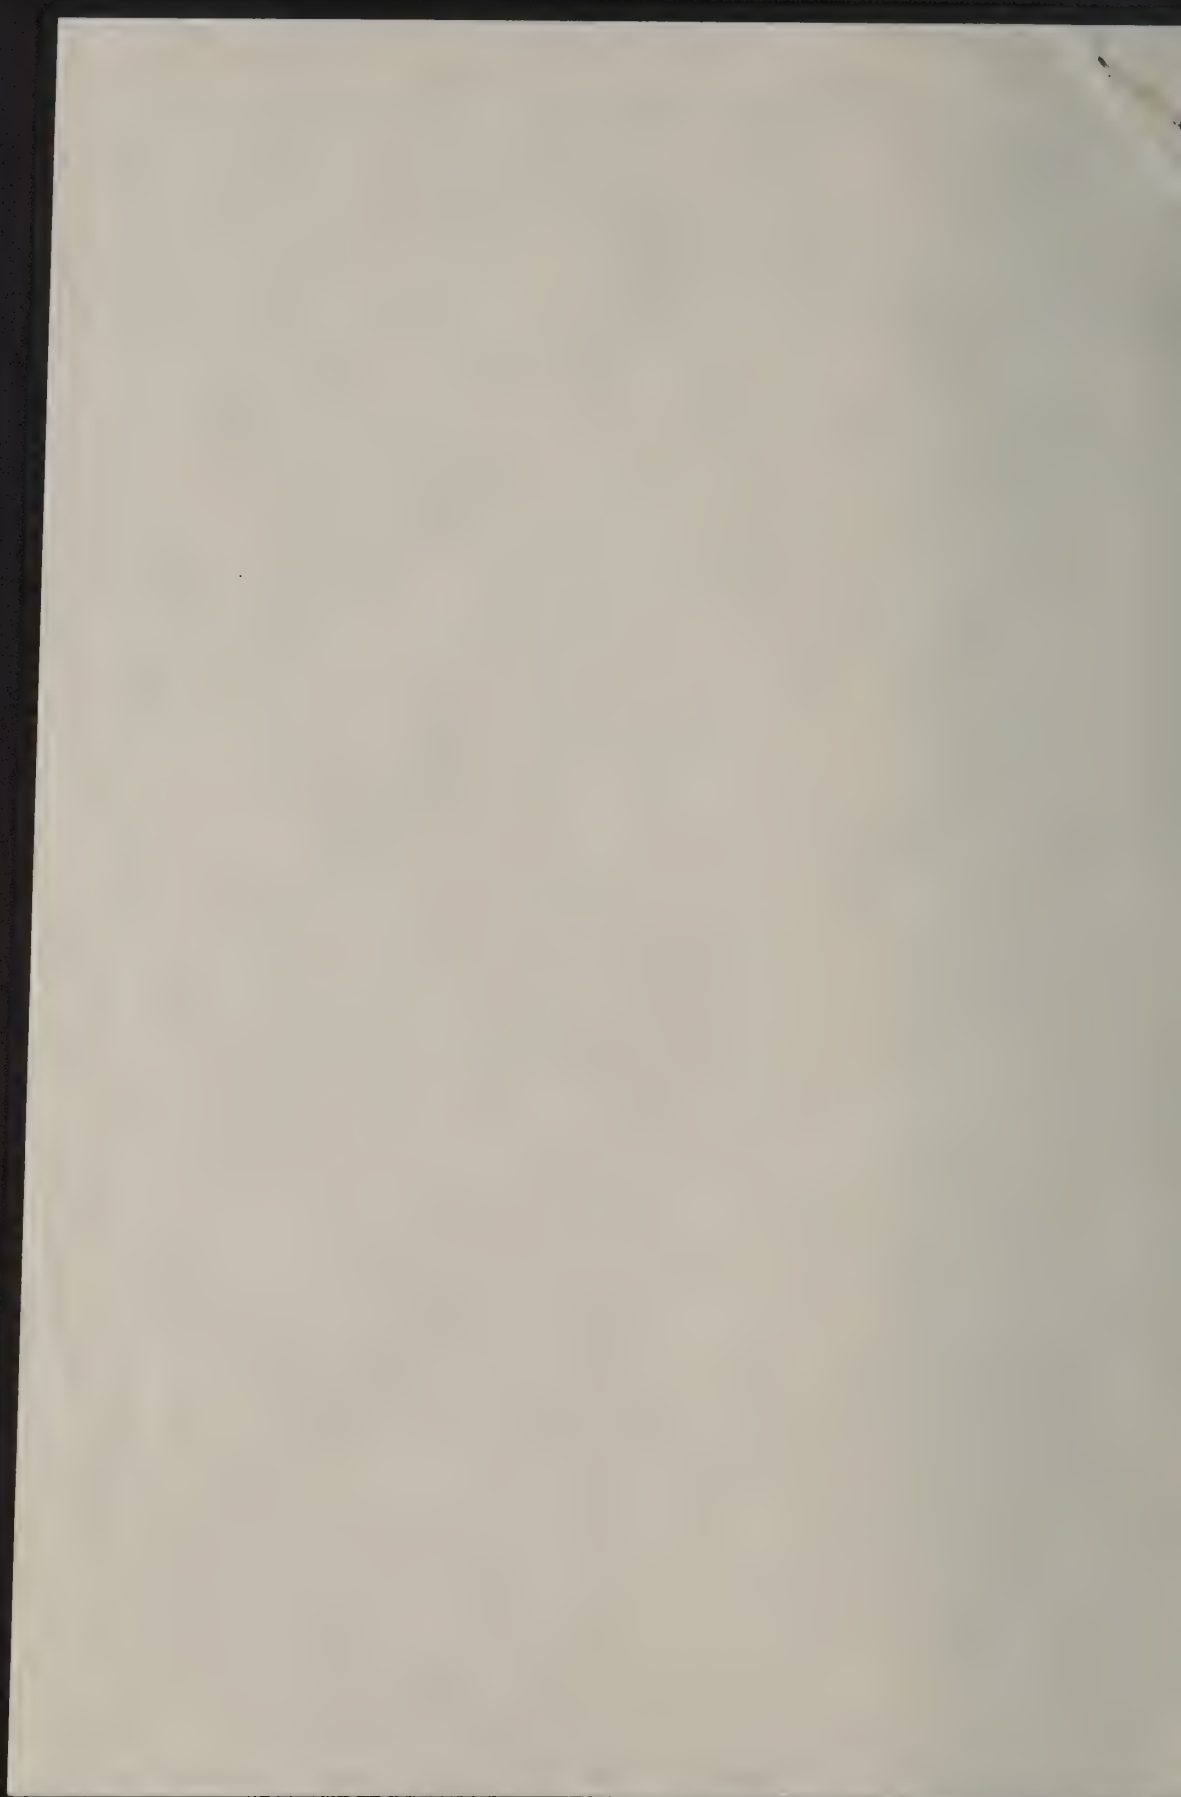

Birth, Marriage, and Death Records. From 1539 to 1792 and during the French Revolution, vital records were kept in registers by the parish priest. After that time, these became civil records kept by the state. The older registers are now in the regional (département) archives.

Census Records. Some early census records go back as far as 1590, but modern census rolls begin with 1836. They have been taken every five years to the present time. You can find them in the regional archives for your ancestral home.

Immigration Records. Passenger lists from 1686 to the present are located at the National Archives or Archives Nationales de France, 60 rue des Francs-Bourgeois, 75141 Paris CEDEX 03.

Military Records. Army and navy personal files (mostly of officers), with name, birth date, place of birth, address, and physical description, are preserved from about 1600 to the present. Army records can be located in the National Archives, navy records at the Ministère de la Marine, 3 Avenue Octave Grenard, 75 Paris 07.

Church Records. You can locate some Protestant registers by contacting Bibliothèque de la Société d'histoire du Protestantisme Français, 54 rue des Saint-Pierres, 75 Paris 07.

Probate and Property Records. Land and property records and wills from 1300 to today can be researched at the office of local notaries for more recent records, and at the National Archives for ancient ones.

Miscellaneous Sources. Feudal and allegiance records from 1050 to 1700, containing names of lords, serfs, taxpayers, lists of men owing allegiance to lords, and dates of feudal contracts can be seen at the National Archives.

Jean Favier, Director General of the Archives of France, suggests Americans of French descent read the following books: Les Archives by Jean Favier, La Généalogie by Pierre Duryé, Guide des Sources de l'Histoire des Etats-Unis dans les Archives Françaises, and A la Recherche de vos Ancêtres, Guide du Généalogiste Amateur by Yann Grandeau. In addition, Guide des Recherches Généalogiques aux Archives Nationales by Jacques Meurgey de Tupigny can be helpful, although a new genealogical research guide was to have been published by the National Archives sometime in 1977.

It is possible to buy inventories and printed index lists published by the Archives of France by writing to the Documentation Française, 29-31 quai Voltaire, 75340 Paris CEDEX 07, and, for a certain number of inventories out of print, to Kraus Reprint, a Division of Kraus-Thomson Organization Ltd., F1. 9491 Nendeln, Liechtenstein.

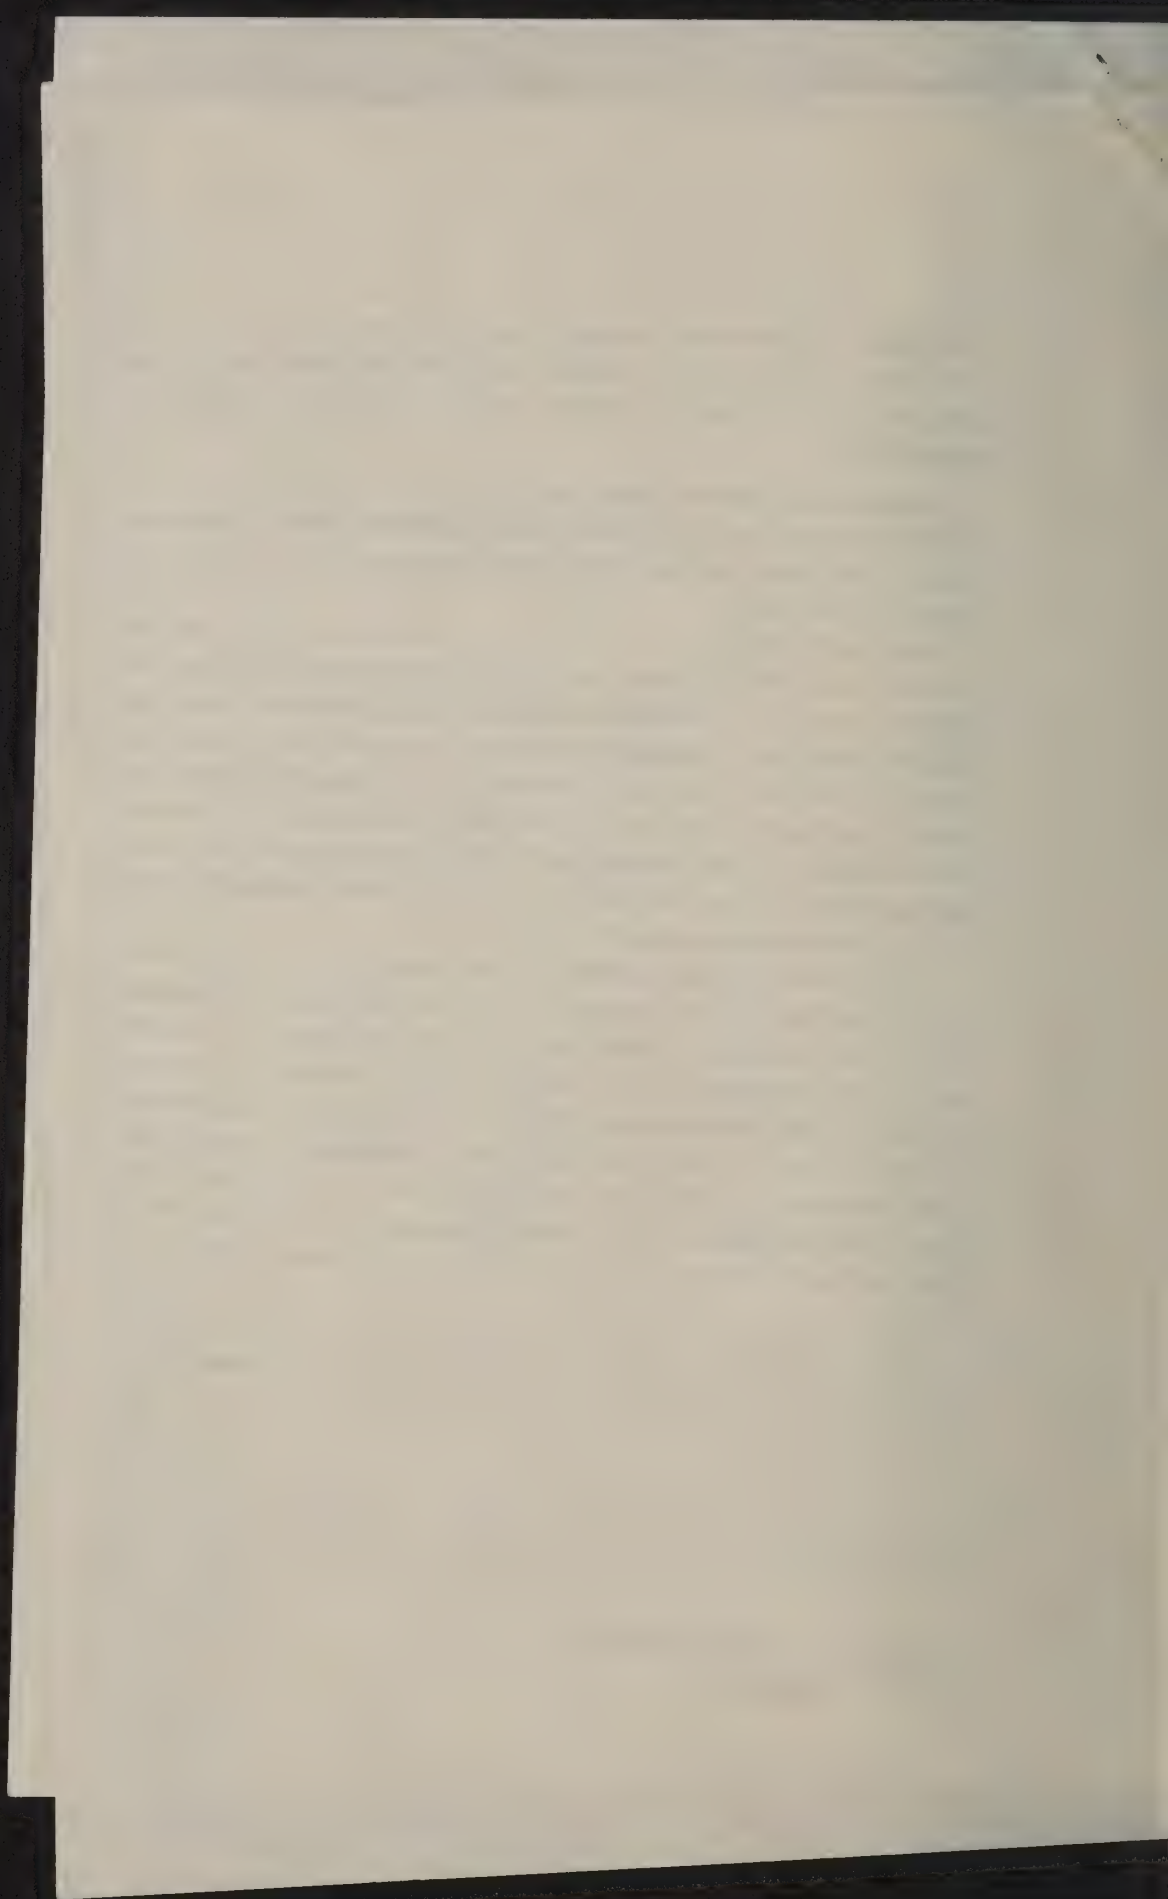

The National Archives of France will undertake to answer a specific question by mail, such as "What was the birthplace of Jean Favier who emigrated to the United States in 1896 from Le Havre?" They will not, however, do any pedigree or genealogical work beyond that.

If you are unable to find any of the books listed above in your library, you should write to the National Archives of France, asking for the name of the publisher of the book that most interests you. (All are in French.)

If you have a French ancestor who emigrated early in this country's history, or if you think you might have noble ancestry, write to Les Vieux Noms de France, 12 rue Caumartin, Paris 09, France.

FIRST NORTHERN BANK

A state-of-the-art community bank serving
Solano County's generations since 1910.

Member FDIC

This map of Dixon, drawn 101 years ago, shows that rancher Dickson's property holdings are correctly spelled. It was a railroad right-of-way agent who misspelled it "Dixon", and the name stuck. Note the flour mill at First and D Streets. Most of Mayes, Ferguson, Coleman and Peter's additions were undeveloped at that time.

THIS MAP IS A COPY OF THE ONE PRINTED IN THE APRIL 1968 ISSUE OF THE SOLANO COUNTY HISTORICAL SOCIETY "NOTE BOOK".

DIXON HISTORY OUTLINE

The first known American settler of Solano was John R. Wolfskill in 1842. He settled on the Wolfskill grant on Putah creek.

In 1851, Elijah S. Silvey brought his name to the town and township of Silveyville.

Dr. O.C. Udell was the pioneer physcian of Putah creek and J.M. Perry kept the first blacksmith shop in the county.

Silveyville: Upon the outbreak of the gold fever the most practicable road to the mines from San Francisco passed from Benicia to Sacramento, through this settlement. For the accomodation of these travelers, Elijah S. Silvey, in 1852, built a house and stock corral. He at first called his house the "Half-way House". In those early days the trail was not very well defined, and the belated traveler was liable to lose his way and wander about the plains all night. To obviate this Silvey used to hoist a red lantern high in the air every night, so that it might serve as a beacon light to the wanderer, and guide him safely into the haven of Silvey's hotel. The hardy pioneer, Silvey, came to an untimely death by accidentally falling from a porch.

The next building at this point was a blacksmith shop, built by Messrs. Wm. Dryden & Noble. On Christmas day, 1856, Geo. A. Gillespie began the foundation of a store building. The history of Silveyville would remain incomplete without honorable mention being made of a newspaper being published at that place by Wm. J. Pearce. This was the first paper published in Northern Solano County and was called "Banner of Liberty". It was founded in 1863. The editor was intensely Democratic and supported Seymour for President. The type was set and the forms made up in Silveyville, but they were sent to Sacramento to be printed. Soon after its first few publications, the editor got into a political altercation with one Dr. J.C. Ogburn, a strong Union man, in which Pearce shot the doctor and was forced to flee the country.

In 1868, the California Pacific Rail Road completed its more direct line of transportation through the Silveyville township and it happened to pass through land owned by Thomas Dickson. He generously offered to donate land for the railroad depot, and the R.R. superintendent in San Francisco said, "put a sign on that last new station: call it 'Dickson.' He didn't say how to spell it, so the man putting up signs spelled it "Dixon." It was several months before the superintendent made a trip of inspection to Sacramento, and when he saw the sign, he was disappointed, but by then the literature, timetables, etc., were printed and all the trainmen knew it by that name so Thomas Dickson said to let it stand. (This information comes from a letter printed in the Centennial Edition of the Dixon Tribune, Oct. 10, 1968 and written by a great grand-daughter of Thomas Dickson. Her name was Ina Baldwin.

Another version found in an 1879 copy of The History of Solano County states, "The town was named in honor of Mr. Thomas Dickson, who donated ten acres for the purpose of a depot and town site. The difference in orthography is accounted for in the fact that the first consignment of goods which came to the town were marked "W.R. Ferguson, Dixon." The spelling being simpler it was at once adopted by all".

There are conflicting reports on the first house built in Dixon. Ina Baldwin, the great grand-daughter, states, "When there was talk of a railroad to connect San Francisco and Sacramento, the survey showed it would come near "Dicksonville," as it was called then. The Dicksons, VanSants, and McFaddens had taken up land, had a general store and a post office".

Thomas Dickson's obituary printed June 27, 1885 in the Dixon Tribune states that in 1853 he came from Iowa to Diamond Springs in El Dorado Co. to try mining and later moved to Solano Co. to return to farming and rented a piece of land north-east of Dixon. He afterwards purchased a quarter section upon which his residence still stands (as of 1853) and which corners at the interesection of Main and A Sts.. Mr. Dickson built the first house ever constructed in Dixon".

Mrs. Belle Miller age 21 married to James R. Black age 30, both of Woodland.

THANKSGIVING WEDDING.

J. C. Montgomery and Miss Gloria Miller Happily United.

After the Ceremony a Reception Was Held at the Residence of the Mother of the Bride.

At 5 o'clock Monday evening, in the rectory of the Holy Rosary Church, Father Hynes duly solemnized the marriage of Mr. J. C. Montgomery, of Davisville, and Miss Gloria Miller, of this city.

Only a few of the immediate friends of the bride and groom were present to witness the solemn and impressive ceremony. The attendants were Miss Bertha Miller and Mr. Frank Miller, sister and brother of the bride.

After the ceremony the party was driven to the residence of Mrs. B. Miller, mother of the bride, two miles west of Woodland.

Between the hours of six and nine a wedding reception was held and an elegant wedding dinner was served. The parlors and dining-room were very tastefully and handsomely decorated with smilax, palms and seasonable flowers.

A bevy of pretty girls, schoolmates of the bride, contributed to the pleasure of the occasion by rendering several vocal selections during the evening.

In the parlors were exhibited the many beautiful presents received by Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery. Many of them were very elegant, and all of them were appropriate and were selected with nice taste and discrimination.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. B. Miller. She is a native of Yolo county and was educated in the public schools and the Holy Rosary Academy. She is a handsome and accomplished young lady and has a host of friends.

The groom is a popular, industrious and prosperous young farmer of Davisville, and the son of Mrs. A. Montgomery. Those who know him best predict for him a bright future.

The bride and groom will remain in Woodland for two or three days, after which they will go to Davisville and take up their residence on the Montgomery farm, near that place.
